The Historian Summit

Name____
Date____________________

Gathering information is essential to making decisions. Sometimes professionals consult each other to fill in their own gaps and to gain another's perspective on an issue. As you consult with other historians, take note of what information is new to you and what information you give to your colleagues.

1). New information and ideas I received from my colleagues:

____2)

Information and ideas I shared with my colleagues: